Biography

Walter J. Karabian was born in Fresno, California, in 1938. He grew up in Fresno's local Armenian community and graduated from Roosevelt High School in June 1956. After high school, Karabian left Fresno to attend the University of Southern California (USC) in Los Angeles. While studying at USC, Karabian was elected Student Body and Junior Class President. He was awarded his Bachelor of Arts in American History in 1960 and then continued his studies at USC. In 1963 Karabian graduated from the USC Law School where he later obtained a Master of Science degree in Public Administration from that institution as well. In addition to his studies, Karabian took an early interest in politics, working for President Lyndon B. Johnson's reelection campaign in 1964. After college, Karabian was a Deputy District Attorney for the County of Los Angeles and entered into private practice with John H. Karns, in Monterey Park.

Karabian moved directly into politics when, running as a Democrat, he was elected to the State Assembly in 1966 as a representative for the 45th Assembly District in the West San Gabriel Valley region of Los Angeles County. One of the youngest men to ever be elected to the Assembly, Karabian continued to represent the 45th District for the next eight years, continually winning reelection to the State Assembly. He published various legal articles during his years in the Assembly and gained a reputation as a significant legal author as well as legislator. Karabian came to occupy a position of leadership among California Democrats and was eventually appointed the Assembly Majority Leader in 1971. As an up-and-coming Democratic leader, Karabian mentored many future members of the Assembly, including Richard Alatorre and Art Torres. Considering himself to be a progressive Democrat, Karabian spearheaded various progressive issues in his legislation. He authored bills that dealt with crime and the law, prison reform, education, civil rights, free speech, and the preservation of endangered species in California. Karabian eventually ran for Secretary of State in 1974, but lost his bid for that office in the primary election and for the most part retired from public life afterwards.

Since 1974, Karabian has practiced law for his firm, Karns and Karabian, in Los Angeles. He has continued to be a politically prominent individual since the 1970s. Karabian was selected as the co-chairman of a trade delegation that visited Cuba during Jimmy Carter's presidency and was named as the legal counsel for a legislative delegation to the Philippines in 1979. Descended from Armenian immigrants, Karabian has also taken an active interest in Armenian issues since 1974 and was selected to speak on behalf of a number of Armenian organizations relating to Armenian grievances and objectives before the Los Angeles World Affairs Council. Karabian currently resides in Los Angeles.

Scope and Content Note

The Karabian papers measure 25 linear feet and date from 1964 to 1992, 2004 to 2005. The papers are arranged in nine series: Biographical information, Legislative files, Campaign materials, Correspondence, Writings, Subject files, Public relations files, Photographs, and Artifacts. The papers are the files that Karabian compiled in his career as a legislator, as well as other materials that relate to his career in the Assembly and his work in politics generally.

The Biographical information series (1956-1980, 2004-2005) contains short biographies written by Karabian or his aides for use in his legislative work, his résumés, and awards won by Karabian in his years as a legislator.

The Legislative files series (1967-1974) contains the records of Karabian's committee and commission work, files for the legislation that he authored, resolutions that he sponsored, Legislative Counsel opinions, Office of the Attorney General opinions, as well as miscellaneous records relating to his work in the State Assembly.

The Campaign materials series (1964-1974) contains the records of Karabian's campaigns for election and reelection to his seat in the 45th Assembly District, fundraising files for Karabian's campaigns, files of Karabian's work for other politicians' elections—including President Lyndon B. Johnson's run for reelection in 1964—records relating to Karabian's aborted 1974 bid for the office of Attorney General, and his efforts to win the Democratic primary for the office of Secretary of State in 1974.

The Correspondence series (1965-1992) contains Karabian's correspondence with various individuals, arranged alphabetically by surname, for the years just before he came into office, up until the 1990s.

The Writings series (1964-1992) contains various writings composed by Karabian from the early 1960s to the 1990s. The bulk of Karabian's writings are either articles he penned for law journals or legislative reports created in his years in office. The writings also contain legislative reports authored by others but supported by Karabian, as well as copies of speeches he has given over the course of his adult life.

The Subject files series (1964-1992) is very similar to the correspondence files, except that it consists of both correspondence as well as newspaper clippings and photographs. It is arranged into four general subseries: General, Armenian files, Education, and People. The most notable of these are the Armenian files, which contain detailed records of Karabian's work relating to Armenian issues as well as files relating to Armenian life in Fresno generally.

The Public relations series (1965-1985) mostly consists of the records of Karabian's public relations work in his years in the Assembly. The largest group of materials consists of newspaper clippings compiled for Karabian about his career in the legislature or political issues that interested him. There is also a sizable group of records related to Karabian's press conferences and press releases.

The Photographs series (1960-1989) consists of photographs collected by Karabian over the course of his life. The bulk of the photographs are scenes from Karabian's personal and public life, although there is a large subgrouping of photographs of major political figures that Karabian has met in his life.

The Artifacts series (1980-1983) is very small consisting of stamps created for Karabian while he was in office, as well as personalized license plates relating to his Assembly career.
